START ME UP

As Editor-in-Chief of Non-Sport Update magazine I'm often asked what got me started, specifically what card sets I collected as a kid. Here are the ones, that I remember anyway, that thrilled me to the bone, one 5¢ pack at a time:

- 1957 Topps Gee Whiz Quiz (aka Isolation Booth): Probably my first non-sport set. Isolation Booth mimicked a popular TV game show, The $64,000 Question (1955-1958). Card fronts asked a general information-type question while the reddish/orange backs cloaked an answer solved by employing pack-included Magic Red Paper.
- 1957 Topps Funny Monsters (aka You'll Die Laughing): Monsters + Jokes + fabulous Jack Davis artwork makes Funny Monsters a truly undervalued set today.
- 1958 Topps Zorro: A Disneyfied version of The Fox was a kid-pleasing TV series, faithfully recreated on vividly colorful Topps photo cards.
- 1959 Fleer 3 Stooges: Truly one of the most important non-sport releases of all-time. I can't tell you how many scarce checklists I found opening packs.
- 1959 Topps Funny Valentines: The cards that little boys gave to little girls who never found them funny.
- 1959 Topps Wacky Plaks: Postcard-sized funny slogans with Jack Davis art.
- 1960 Leaf Foney Ads: Arguably the first Wacky Packages, presented as cards, rather than as stickers.
- 1962 Bubbles (Topps) Mars Attacks!: Took me forever to complete a set due to an elusive card #19, Burning Flesh. Not a short print; just hard for me to find.

- 1960 Topps Funny Valentines A: Girls still didn't find them funny.
- 1961 Nu-Card Dinosaurs: Not given much street cred today, but definitely fun as a juvenile. The weird turquoise highlighting and hard-to-find "S" card (necessary to win a card album) made it special.
- 1961 Nu-Card Horror Monsters Series 1: I came across this one after completing Series 2. Series 1, with its sickly green borders and cool skull-numbering system, is still my all-time favorite monster set.
 - 1961 NuCard Horror Monsters Series 2: I remember pulling the 100-wrapper bonus card in my first pack and trading it for ten other cards; not a good move.
 - 1963 Abby Vending Monster Magic Action Trading Cards: Even as a kid I realized this set was crap.
 - 1963 Topps Monster Flip Movies: Great because flipping through its pages made each of the 36 picture booklets come alive. Because they were paper rather than cardboard they fell apart pretty easily, accounting for their scarcity today.
- 1964 Bubbles Monsters From The Outer Limits: These cards presented what kids really wanted to see from The Outer Limits: the monsters! Black card borders chipped easily.
- 1965 Philadelphia Gum James Bond: Loving the spy craze made this one a must.
- 1965 Topps Man From U.N.C.L.E.: More B&W spy stuff and the last set I put together until my 1990 non-sport reawakening.
- 1966 It was right around this point I left childhood behind, discovered the opposite sex, and sent all my cards right out the window! And now I want them back! NSU

TOPPS WORLD ON WHEELS REALLY COMPLETE SET SELLS FOR $1,800

Heritage Auctions closed on a complete set of Topps 1954-55 World on Wheels that included all the known back variations, which have always challenged vintage card collectors looking to finish their sets. A true 192-card master set was present, which included the tough high number series from 161 to 180, along with rarely complete numbered cards 171 to 180 in both red and blue back variations.

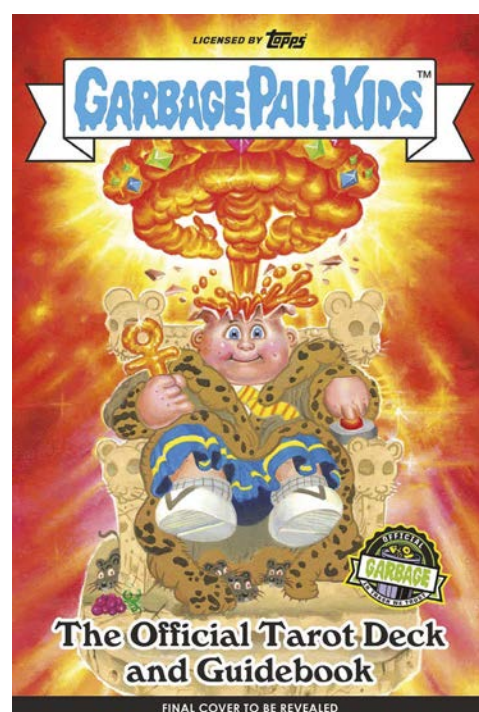

Two other cards also have variations. Card 7 can be found with Norton—German Motorcycle or Norton—English Motorcycle, and card 92 Mercury Sedan can be found with Horsepower and Wheelbase reversed on the card backs. The final auction price of $1,800 included a buyer's premium of 20%. The offered set generally graded out at excellent to excellent-near mint. The auction house stated this was the first set with all variations they have offered in their history.

TOPPS LOOK 'N SEE REMBRANDT PSA 8 HAMMERED DOWN AT $1,920

The 1952 Topps Rembrandt card has always been an enigma for the non-sport hobby, as it is difficult to find and more often than not it has condition issues, notably centering problems. A stunning example, graded by Professional Sports Authenticators as NM-MT 8, was offered and sold on November 18, 2021 by Heritage Auctions. This card is one of seven graded as 8 with only two other examples graded higher.

Speculation is the card was short printed and was a corner cut on the sheets used to print the cards, but nothing conclusive has been uncovered. Non-sport mysteries keep the hobby interesting and this is a mystery that may never be solved.

SAINSBURY'S RELEASES 2021 SET—HEROES ON A MISSION

United Kingdom based Sainsbury's food stores annual trading card offering for 2021 was another boon for trading card collectors across the pond. Heroes on a Mission features a number of Disney based properties, with Star Wars and Marvel prominent among them, along with characters from Disney and Pixar. The set consists of 144 cards and a colorful album that could be purchased to store the collection. Packs of cards could be obtained either by purchasing 10 pounds worth of groceries, which provided a free pack, or purchasing them for 50 pence a pack.

Sainsbury's has been offering sets in a similar format for several years. Sets have included LEGO based characters for Create the World, of which three series have been released (2017, 2018 and 2020) and another Disney based Heroes set in 2019. No doubt fans are eager to see what is on offer in 2022.

UPPER DECK THE CROW TRADING CARDS ON E-PACK

The iconic movie franchise, The Crow, has been re-released on Upper Deck's e-Pack platform, allowing for collectors to assemble sets over a fifteen-week period that started on December 9, 2021. Each week one base card, along with one of two variant base cards, were available, and random Character Profiles bonus cards could also be found in packs. All cards feature artwork renderings from the film series.

Achievements cards were offered for completing full 30-card base sets, full 30-card variant sets, and the Character Profiles 12-card set. Collectors could redeem these for additional variant base cards or original artist sketch cards from well-known artists Melike Acar, Marica Dye, and Peejay Catacutan, among others. Collectors can also trade with others to aid in completing their sets on the e-Pack trading platform. NSU

WHO DEBUT

IT'S TARDIS TIME!
RITTENHOUSE UNVEILS
NEW WHO FOR YOU

BY ALAN BIEGEL

While David Bowie may have been The Man Who Fell to Earth, Jodie Whittaker is clearly the woman who fits that description best. In fact, that's the way she made her unceremonious entry in Episode One of Series 11 of Doctor Who, Britain's most famous TV series export.

Rittenhouse Archives feels this is the right timey wimey moment to begin their sojourn into the never-ending story of Doctor Who. Says President of Rittenhouse Archives, Steve Charendoff, "It's always the right time for Doctor Who, as the show continues to air new episodes. Doctor Who remains the longest running science fiction franchise in history, and the fan base extends throughout the world.”

BBC, DOCTOR WHO and TARDIS (word marks and logos) are trade marks of the British Broadcasting Corporation and are used under licence. BBC logo © BBC 1996. Doctor Who logo © BBC 2018. Thirteenth Doctor images © BBC Studios 2018. Licensed by BBC Studios.

Some may feel beginning with Series 11 & 12 of a show that’s been mostly on the air since 1963 is an odd place to start, but Charendoff has logical reasons, “We wanted to start with the current Doctor, played by Jodie Whittaker, and her era began with Series 11. Our intention is to continue making cards for the most current versions of the show, both now and into the future, as our relationship with the BBC is a long-term one. But as we do that, we will also create retrospective card sets based on past seasons and Doctors. We’ve already made a deal with Christopher Eccleston, who played the 9th Doctor and was responsible for rebooting the franchise back in 2005.”

The Rittenhouse exec summed up his working relationship with the licensor of Doctor Who, the British Broadcasting Corporation, by using a word favored by the 9th Doctor, “Fantastic!” Charendoff elaborated, “We have been extremely pleased to work with the BBC, and I think they have been extremely pleased with our approach to this iconic franchise. They realize we are uniquely suited to managing this franchise, since our specialty is science fiction. We’re not a sports card company that happens to make other cards from time to time. No other card company has ever been able to make that claim, and we give Doctor Who the attention to detail that it deserves and perhaps has never had before in this kind of product line. For Doctor Who, I am personally creating the checklist, selecting the photos, editing the cards, and watching all of the episodes. We’ll do a deeper dive into the material that will pay greater tribute to the franchise and appeal to the hardcore fans. That’s the Rittenhouse difference.”

GENDER DEFENDER

One aspect of the 13th Doctor’s persona initially causing Whovian consternation was switching The Doctor’s embodiment from male to female. Charendoff pushed that concern aside, “Aside from gender, which adds a new and interesting element to the storylines, Jodie has her own unique sense of humor and representation of this iconic character. She has a great sense of comedic timing, as well as a strong dramatic presence. She’s been fabulous as The Doctor.”

WHO SIGNS

While the company is still nailing down a firm date, May 2022 is the current release projection for Doctor Who Series 11 & 12 Trading Cards. The base set will consist of three cards per episode for both Series 11 and 12. Cards will be adorned with photos front and back as well as text that retells the story of each episode in three-part segments. “[The base cards are] very typical of Rittenhouse products that we make for Star Trek, Game of Thrones and other science fiction series,” Charendoff added.

There will be lots of different inserts to embellish the set. This includes loads of autographs, bonus cards for the New Year’s specials in 2019 and 2021, Starring Characters, Allies and Adversaries, The TARDIS, and much more.

While costume cards and sketches are not planned for this particular series, Rittenhouse has lined up enough key autographers to fill up a TARDIS (well, almost). Signers include Jodie Whittaker (The Doctor), Mandip Gill (Yaz), Tosin Cole (Ryan), Alan Cumming (King James), Sacha Dhawan (The Master), Jo Martin (The Fugitive Doctor), Sharon Clarke (Grace), Patrick O’Kane (The Lone Cyberman), Paul Kasey (The Judoon

13 ENDS WITH 13

Jodie Whittaker, who is also known for her leading role in TV’s Broadchurch along with Doctor Who alum, David Tennent, has decided to make Series 13 her last, after fulfilling the role of the inimitable Doctor for three full seasons. Her time on the show will conclude with three TV specials, culminating in what the BBC calls an epic blockbuster, to be broadcast in the fall of 2022. Who will be the next regenerator? Who knows!

Captain), Mark Addy (Paltraki), Sam Oatley (Tzim-Sha), Robert Glenister (Thomas Edison), Brett Goldstein (Astos), Seylan Baxter (Tecteun), Nicholas Briggs (Voice of the Daleks), and many dozens more. Every participating actor has also signed inscription autograph cards, which Charendoff feels is very compelling. “This cast has been awesome to work with,” he says.

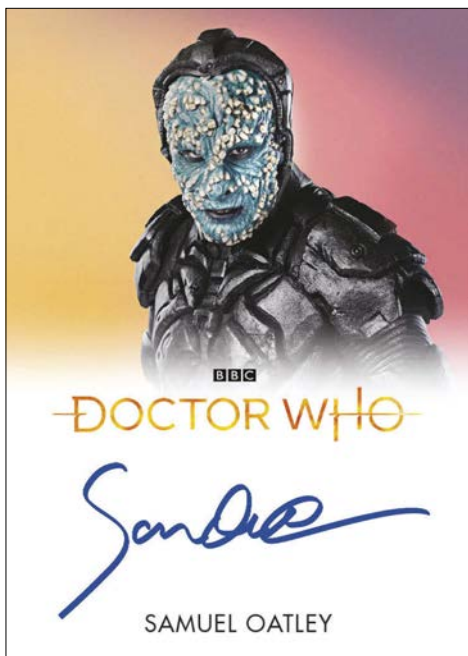

Case toppers are a great bonus for fully invested supporters and this set offers some truly special ones. The case topper for the Hobby Edition will be a 3-D Decatation card of the TARDIS while the case topper for the U.K. Edition will be a 3-D Decatation card of a Dalek. Of course, no Doctor Who card collection would be complete without a spiffy new album to house it in, and this one even comes with an exclusive promo card.

As a company, Rittenhouse Archives is known for being innovative, and this set continues to support that claim. “Our plan at this time is to create two versions of this first series of cards, at least, with a Hobby version and a UK version,” Charendoff announced. “Some cards will be the same in both, but many cards will be different and only available in each respective version. I’m very excited for that. As a franchise that originates in the UK, we feel that it makes sense to have something special and distinguishing for the product issued in the UK.”

WHO'S NEXT

Even while working on the current set, Charendoff is already planning out future Who, “As I mentioned before, we’ve just signed a deal with Christopher Eccleston, who has never signed Doctor Who cards before for a product like this, and we’ll go deep into those seasons that predate Jodie Whittaker. The likely next set of cards will focus on Series 1 through 4, with Eccleston and David Tennant. So much great material to cover, and I can’t wait to dig into all of it!” And best of all, this whole plan will serve as a tribute to you know Who. NSU

WHAT NOT

Even though Jodie Whittaker is considered to be the 13th Doctor, there was an unnumbered Doctor who proceeded her and the four other Doctors of the modern era. Story-wise, actor John Hurt, who briefly portrayed The War Doctor, regenerated from Paul McGann, the Eighth Doctor. That insertion moves all subsequent Doctors up one number. Or not. Former show runner Steven Moffat once said that The War Doctor doesn’t use the numbering title. Guess that clears that up. Or not!

There is also The Fugitive Doctor, who was introduced in the Nu-Who Series 12 episode, Fugitive of the Judoon. This particular Doc is also female like Doctor # 13 and proceeds Doctor # 1 in the timeline. Number-wise, that’s clearly a rabbit hole only the most dedicated fans dare to go down.

A NATION DIVIDED

SIXTY YEARS AGO TOPPS BEGAN ITS OWN CIVIL WAR

BY ARNOLD BAILEY

"Blood and guts and artwork will win every time."

That's how Len Brown described the best way to create a collectible set of non-sport cards. And he should know! Brown wrote himself a legendary career at Topps that began when he was just 18 years old and lasted for more than four decades. He was in the product development department and his specialty was writing the background information describing what the card front image is all about.

Brown learned the value of the "blood and guts" approach as a young fan of the Horrors of War set produced in 1938 by Gum Inc. With the Horror's lesson learned, he was with Topps when the company produced Civil War News in 1962, which then led him to help create Mars Attacks the same year and Battle three years later.

BLOOD COUNT

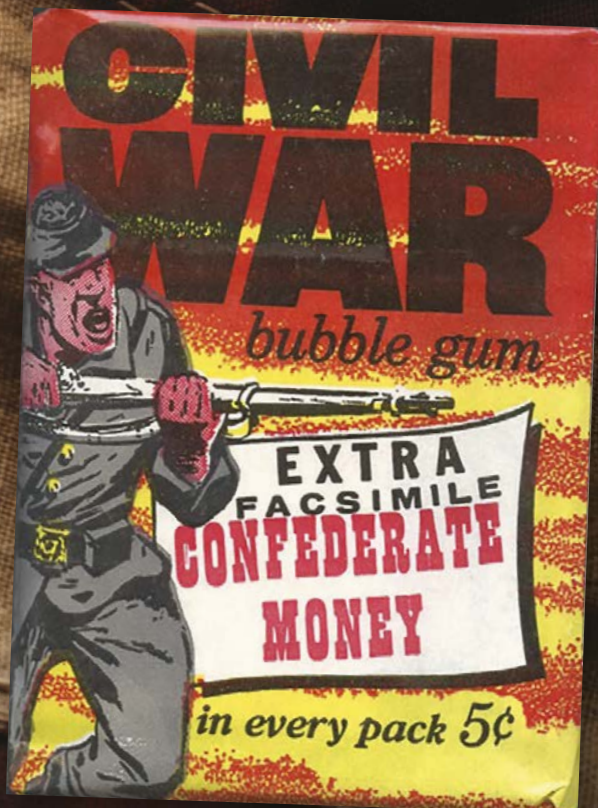

Common to all three card sets is the bloody and gut-spilling artwork dominating the fronts of the cards, plus the often shocking and occasionally tasteless descriptions on the card backs. Death or dying are mentioned so often on the checklist and the 87 other cards that the total qualifies as a morgue.

Common, too, is the widespread criticism leveled at the cards and companies that made them because blood and guts were so prevalent. Also common to all three sets is their long-lasting popularity.

The commonality even extended to the devotion collectors felt for the card sets, best illustrated by Civil War News. Topps had named the set simply Civil War, but it was collectors who added News to the name, a step toward clarity in recognition of the newspaper design dominating the backs of the cards. It turned out to be good news. The new name stuck.

The Meaning of Death

The echoes of death on Civil War News seems appropriate in light of the tremendous human suffering in that classic battle. Of all the wars Americans has fought, the Civil War resulted in the highest death toll. The total is 750,000 during the war's four years. That's more than the 405,399 American deaths in World War II and the 116,516 in WWI.

FUNNY MONEY

With popularity quite naturally comes increased value and, for collectors, higher prices. Price guides list the value of a full set in top condition in the $850 range, but other sources (auctions, grading pros, etc.) range up to $3,120 for what was in 2020 the number one gem mint set on the PSA log, and $1,673 for the second best. The guides value individual cards at about $8 each, with the relatively scarce checklist (#88) cards at about $60.

The accompanying insert series of 17 replica Confederate currency and bank notes, in dominations ranging from $5 to $1,000, are valued in the guides at $240, though sales of that subset can sell for five times that. The counterfeit money was folded to fit into packs as an insert, so that doesn't affect their value.

More War!

Civil War News may be the most popular, but it's certainly not the only Civil War card set. Also popular are two sets, both produced in 1996, featuring the art of Mort Kunstler, the father of pulp fiction illustrations. They were produced by Keepsake Collection and Comic Images. A different kind of artwork was used by Freedom Press in 1994 in a 16-card set of Currier & Ives. A much larger set featuring 280 cards and 20 foldouts was produced in 2000 by Time Traders.

Cult-Stuff made up two Civil War Chronicles series in 2013 and 2015 featuring mostly sketches. Perhaps the most limited set was produced in 1991 called Civil War Collector's Cards and limited to 25 sets in plastic cases. Bon Air produced boxed and factory sets called Civil War Heritage in 1991 and '92. The Civil War is also included in many more general card sets like Topps' 1954 Scoop. One of the stars of that show is Abraham Lincoln, and this Civil War era president is perhaps on more cards than any other national leader. Even the National Parks Service has produced a series of Civil War cards.

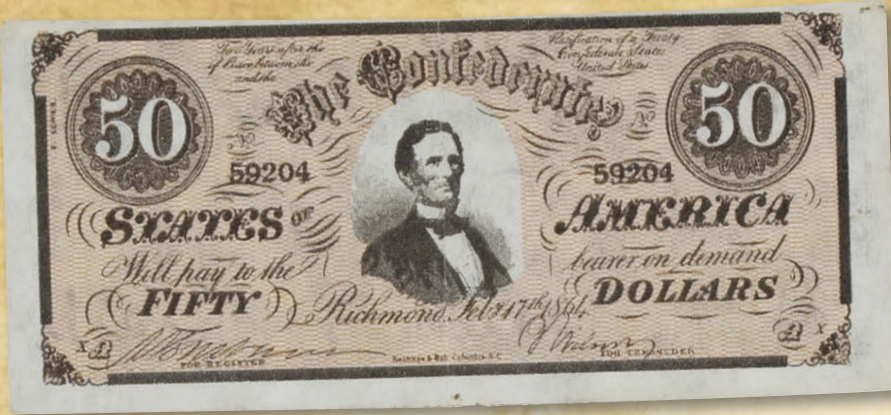

FAKE NEWS

The 88-card set was created in 1961 and distributed in 1962 (which became its catalogue year). It was timed to coincide with the Civil War Centennial. The 87 artwork fronts have a horizontal design with all backs, including the checklist, vertical. Card fronts have narrow white borders and the title/headlines are in horizontal white boxes. The original artwork was not in oil or watercolor but in tempera, which results in a unique effect.

Card back descriptions are very detailed, although from 80 to 85 percent of the details are pure fiction, according to Len Brown. The cards are battle-oriented rather than focused on people, although Abraham Lincoln, Jefferson Davis, Robert E. Lee, Stonewall Jackson, and a few others do get some attention. And their cards get pricey (like the PSA gem mint #2 Jefferson Davis that sold for $1,673 in 2012). Five cards focus on individuals and eight battles are on more than a single card, so the full set covers 73 different encounters.

Here are some additional prices paid for gem mint single cards: #88 checklist, $230 in 2008; #1 The Angry Man, $1,434 in 2012; #4 Rebel Power, $1,076 in 2012; #66 Dynamite victims, $1,016 in 2012; and #34 Wall of Corpses, $57 in 2014.

In a past interview, Topps' Brown estimated only 110,000 complete sets were produced. There are no short prints to complicate things, although the checklist is scarce now, and cards are often off-centered, especially #97. Cards came in 1¢ and 5¢ packs and 36-card rack packs. One of the latter sold for $601.35 in 2014.

Civil War News may be more timely and appropriate to America now than at any other time since the first war between the states pitted "brother against brother" in a bitter cultural battle. Today, some believe a second civil war is inevitable. Congressional hearings focused on the January 6, 2021 insurrection make the issues clear and frightening. Could the violence in this Topps non-sport card set contain lessons that need to be learned and learned as soon as possible? NSU

Midnight Fight

In 2013, Topps commemorated its 75th anniversary in the trading card business, and here is a shortened version of how it viewed its Civil War News set produced 51 years earlier:

"Topps has a long history of presenting historical events through its non-sports cards, and this set...is a prominent example. Maurice Blumenfeld, Norm Sanders and Bob Powell produced color paintings that depict—sometimes in gory detail—the War Between the States. Although the set offered educational value, some parents objected to the graphic violence portrayed on many cards."

As a sample, Topps chose card number 36, Midnight Raid, to include in the anniversary set as a particularly gory scene.

NON-SPORT SETS OF 1992

BY RYAN CRACKNELL

It might not feel like it for many, but 30 years is a long time. We've changed and so have trading cards. Card shops were more plentiful. Packs could still be found at a lot of places that didn't traditionally carry them. The number of sets and licenses was extensive. The Internet? Even though it existed, the idea of buying and selling online was still very much a thing of futuristic fantasy for most.

Here's a look back at ten trading card sets released in 1992 that are still popular today or relevant to the hobby in other ways.

10. 1992 TOPPS TEENAGE MUTANT NINJA TURTLES III

The shelf life of most children's franchises is often short lived, at least in their initial run before nostalgia kicks in. By the time the third Teenage Mutant Ninja Turtles movie rolled around, the heroes in a half shell had peaked. But with waning interest comes smaller print runs. When it comes to TMNT trading cards, this is one of the tougher Topps sets to find.

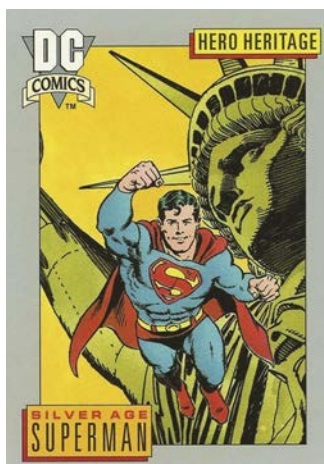

9. 1992 PACIFIC SAVED BY THE BELL

Like the show it's based on, 1992 Pacific Saved by the Bell is a goofy set. Fans of the series probably wouldn't want much else. There are no insert sets, but it's still a challenging product given its relative rarity.

Pacific revisited the franchise a couple of years later for the short-lived College Years. This product is much more readily available than the original set. The crown jewel of this release is the Prism inserts.

8. 1992 IMPEL DC COSMIC CARDS

If it worked for Marvel, why not try it with DC? Impel took the formula it applied to their Marvel Universe line and applied it to the other major comic world. But there's just one problem—there's no Batman. His key friends and foes are also MIA. The checklist still has lots of depth (and holograms) but the Dark Knight's absence is definitely noticeable.

7. 1992 TOPPS STADIUM CLUB BATMAN RETURNS

In 1991, Topps introduced Stadium Club as a premium brand that was big on high-quality printing technology. The card maker had even partnered with Kodak to make sure images looked their best. 1992 Topps Stadium Club Batman Returns brought the same principles to non-sport cards. These cards are slick and an early entertainment entry into the ever escalating area of high-end trading cards.

6. 1992 IMPEL MARVEL UNIVERSE SERIES 3

Impel's Marvel Universe run was a major catalyst in getting non-sport cards into the mainstream hobby in the early '90s. Series 3 might not be remembered as fondly as the previous two sets but it still has a ton of depth, comic history and impressive artwork. Holograms are back, too.

4. 1992 WILD CARD DECISION '92

Politics and trading cards have a history that went back decades before 1992. However, Wild Card's Decision '92 changed things. Going beyond just the candidates, Bill Clinton, George H.W. Bush and Ross Perot, the set takes a deeper dive into the issues of the day as well as some political history. Today, it's a time capsule reminder of a time when Dan Quayle's beefing with the sitcom Murphy Brown was not only headline-making news but worthy of trading cards. It's the depth and larger cultural undertones that helped lay the groundwork for more recent political trading cards.

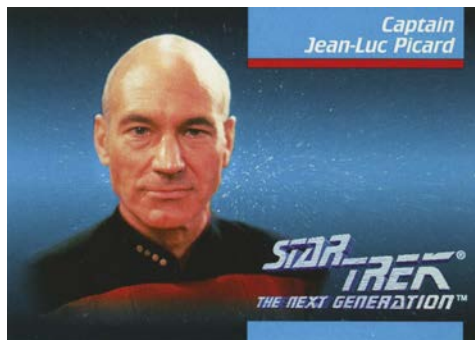

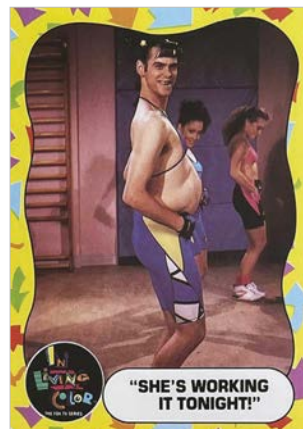

2. 1992 STAR PICS SATURDAY NIGHT LIVE

It's hard to believe this is the only set of mainstream Saturday Night Live trading cards. Between the show's lengthy history, huge number of stars and unforgettable characters, there's plenty of content to draw from even if there are licensing complications getting the celebrity hosts and musical guests onto the checklist. Star Pics' set does an incredible job of covering the show's first 25-plus years, featuring the likes of Eddie Murphy, Gilda Radner, Adam Sandler, Chris Farley, and more.

5. 1992 TOPPS IN LIVING COLOR

The Fox sketch comedy may seem like a curious choice for a set of trading cards. But in the early '90s everything was fair game. As a product, this isn't the most popular release of the era. However, the checklist does include some notable trading card debuts from Jim Carrey and Jennifer Lopez, who was part of the Fly Girls dancing group on the show. If the trend of first appearances continues on this side of the hobby like they have for sets like Star Wars and Rocky, 1992 Topps In Living Color could see increased interest soon.

3. 1992 IMPEL STAR TREK: THE NEXT GENERATION

Star Trek has a long and rich history in the world of non-sport. This is far from the most valuable set connected to the franchise but it is significant in that it's the first mainstream release to fall outside the original series and its spinoff films.

1. 1992 SKYBOX MARVEL MASTERPIECES

Arriving a couple of years after the game-changing 1990 Marvel Universe set from Impel, SkyBox elevated things again with the introduction of Marvel Masterpieces. Here, the focus is on fine art. Fantasy legend Joe Jusko did all of the paintings. The production run of 350,000 boxes seems absurd today but the idea of making Marvel trading cards high-end was an important one that's still important today—not to mention beautiful. NSU

SKIN DEEP

A SUPERFICIAL HISTORY OF TEMPORARY
TATTOOS AND TRADING CARDS

BY RUDY PANUCCI

Over the last couple of generations, tattoos have become a common sight. However, as recently as the 1960s, tattoos were rare and exotic, considered by mainstream Americans as the marks of sailors, prison inmates, loose women, and motorcycle riders. Back then, tattoos were taboo.

Now they aren't. Something happened since that time to change the public view of tattoos from being the mark of a dangerous person to being, frankly, a rather mundane fashion statement. There are estimates that 40% of people under the age of 40 have a tattoo of some kind, and some cultural observers have joked the real sign of a non-conformist today is a person who doesn't have a tattoo.

Something made tattoos socially acceptable, and a big part of that may well have been the explosion in popularity of the temporary tattoo among Baby Boomers and subsequent generations. Kids who love temporary tattoos are more likely to grow up and get real tattoos.

A TEMPORARY HISTORY

Cheap temporary tattoos have been around since at least the 1890s. Printed in sheets for a penny or given away as prizes in boxes of Cracker Jacks, these simple, crude transfers were printed with food coloring on nonabsorbent paper, which made it easier to transfer the designs to human skin.

This method was actually developed by real tattoo artists who wanted a way to transfer complex designs to skin so they could have a guide to use for a real tattoo. This is still done today, but somewhere along the line someone realized there was a market for temporary "tattoo flashes" and the remarkably low cost of mass-producing made them very popular as inexpensive novelties.

TATTOOS BUBBLE TO THE SURFACE

Pop culture temporary tattoos have been around since the 1930s or before, with vintage temporary tattoo sheets of Betty Boop and Popeye still turning up fairly regularly on the secondary market, there was a real explosion in the market for licensed character tattoos following Topps' success with a Baseball set in 1960. Fleer and Donruss quickly joined into the fray.

In no time tattoos wrapped about bubblegum were in vending machines and penny-candy counters everywhere. Early sets like Topps' Superman and Monster Tatoo [sic] (with art by Jack Davis) were soon joined by an avalanche of licensed gum tattoos featuring Bullwinkle, Underdog, Mighty Mouse, The Lone Ranger...really almost every kid-favorite character from the 1960s and 1970s wound up as a bubblegum tattoo.

There were also loads of generic tattoos on the market, with everything from monsters to pirates to flowers and zoo animals showing up to be transferred to the skin of kids everywhere. Topps even made bubblegum tattoos of Wacky Packages in the mid-1970s.

By the late 1960s, in addition to bubblegum tattoos, wax packs of tattoos in the standard trading card size flooded the market, and it's at this point the hobby becomes a little easier to sort out, as so many of the bubblegum tattoos had no numbers or checklists, but also had several variations and running changes complicating matters.

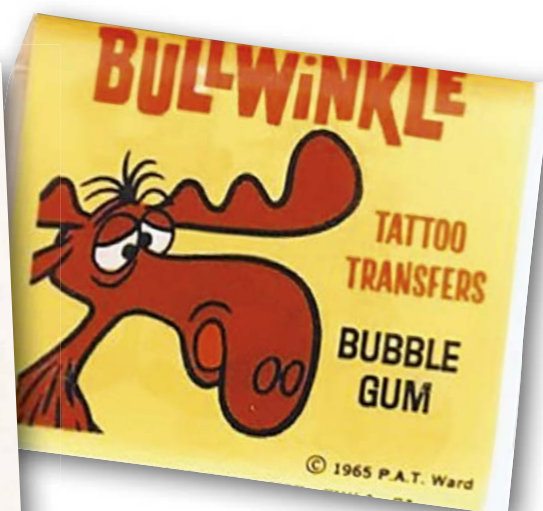

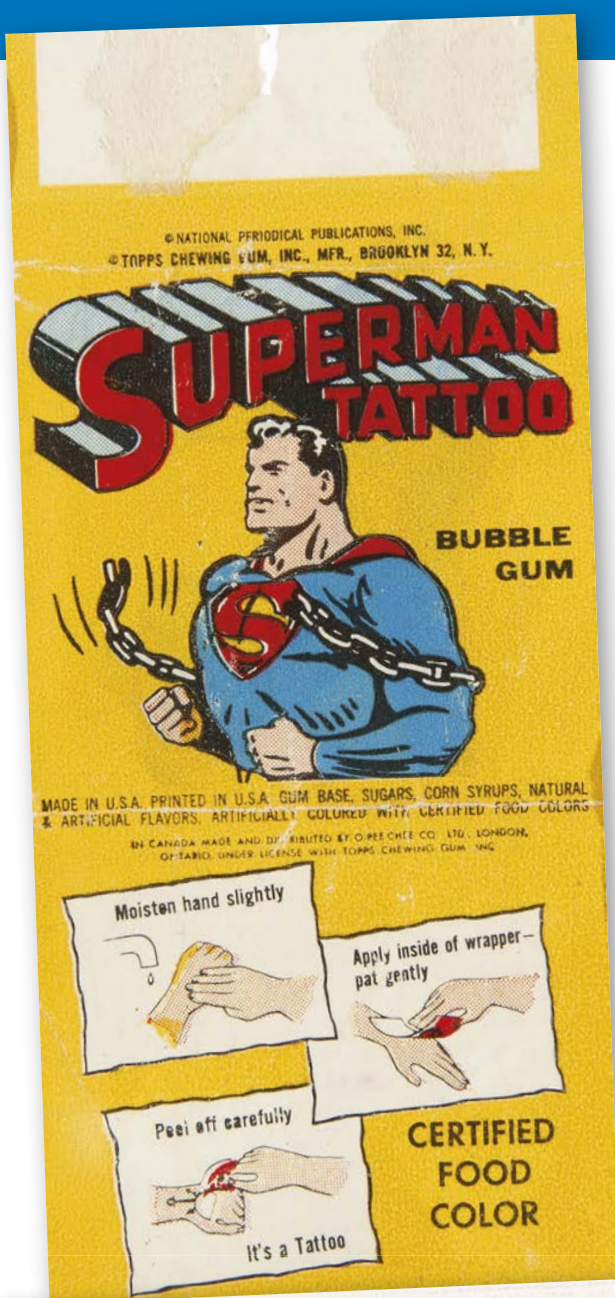

TATTOO YOU

The first generation of temporary tattoos were made by printing an image using food-coloring-based inks on a non-absorbent paper. If the paper got wet, the ink would transfer to another surface...human skin being one of those.

Many dealers of pre-1970 non-sport cards treat bubblegum wrapper tattoos as cards. The subject matter is pretty much the same—monsters, superheroes, cartoon characters, etc.—so it makes a good fit, albeit a niche category. The fact that the bulk of these bubblegum tattoos were produced by Topps, Donruss and Fleer is another attraction for collectors.

The drawback is that, being printed with food coloring, these tattoos are biodegradable and will deteriorate unless stored in ideal situations. Also, many were damaged simply by opening the gum, since they were printed inside the wrapper. Add to that the fact that these were consumables and not collectibles—most kids licked and applied these things instead of saving them—and you have a niche hobby that can be very expensive.

Crossover collectors of tattoo memorabilia will compete for the same limited supply of product available and that can make collecting pre-1980 temporary tattoos very intimidating and frustrating for beginners.

RUBBING UP TO TECHNOLOGY

As temporary tattoos became more popular, beginning in the 1960s, companies like Letraset in the UK and 3M in America began developing more durable temp-tats, that were more akin to a decal than a simple ink transfer, and this allowed for more elaborate designs and sharper printing. The transfer principle was the same, but the tattoo cards printed this way are much more long-lasting and easier to collect.

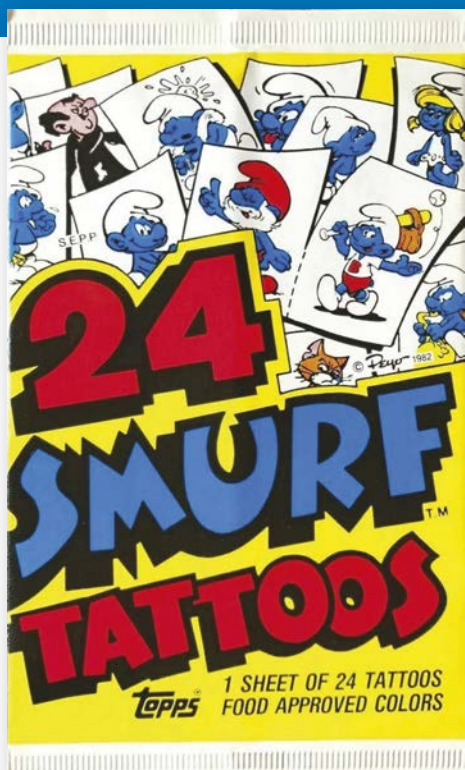

This didn't mean the end of the food-coloring ink tattoo. Some sets, like Topps' 1988 Pee Wee's Playhouse Fun Pak, include old-school temporary tattoos for that special retro feel. The 1980s saw a mix of food-coloring tattoos with sets like The Smurfs, and high-tech temporary tattoos, some of which were peel-and-stick and even scratch-and-sniff.

THE RETURN OF THE TEMPORARY

After a bit of a lull in the early 1980s, as the penny-candy market faded away, temporary tattoos in trading cards staged a comeback in the 1990s, both as full sets of tattoos or as special insert sets in non-sport collections.

In the last thirty years there have been plenty of tattoo insert cards. Everything from The Simpsons to Star Wars to Garbage Pail Kids and Rick & Morty have had temporary tattoo inserts. There have also been entire sets of tattoo designs by famous artists like Ed Hardy and Lisa Frank.

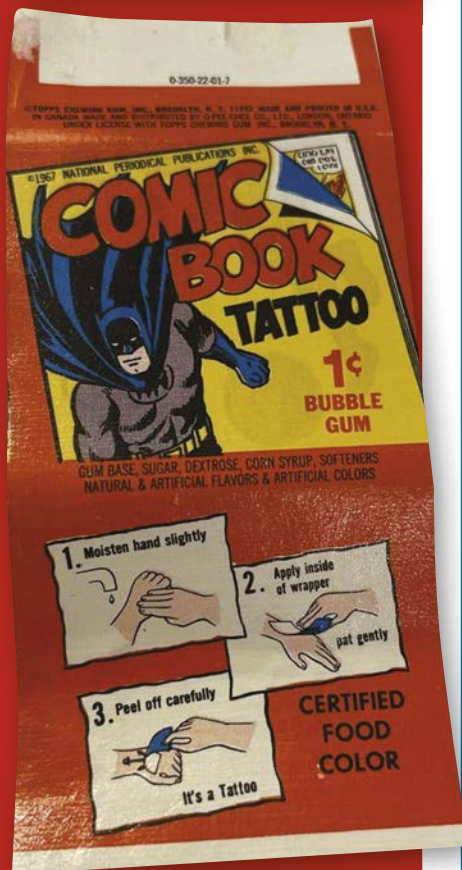

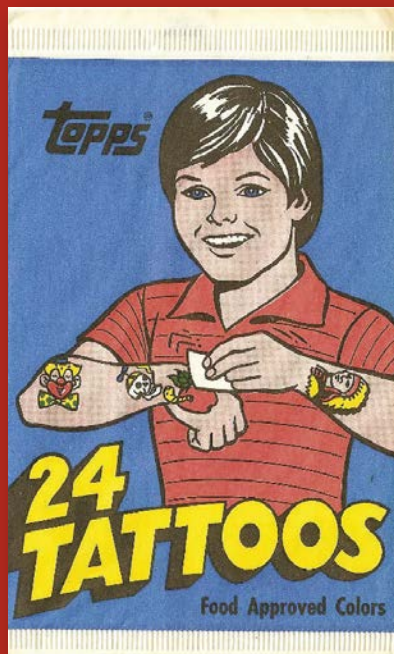

Temporary tattoos are back, although not as popular as they once were because so many folks have real tattoos now that the novelty has worn off. The fact that non-sport cards are no longer aimed at kids has lessened the appeal dramatically, too. It's a safe bet that the vast majority of temporary tattoos produced as inserts for trading card sets since 1990 were never applied to anyone's skin. NSU

A RICH NICHE

With a niche collectible having as rich a history as temporary tattoos, values can be all over the place, depending on where fans want to focus their collection. Generic sets like the 1981 Topps 24 Tattoos wax pack can routinely be found for a dollar per unopened pack. On the flip side, Topps 1962 Monster Tatoo, on those rare occasions when they do show up, might go for a hundred dollars for a single tattoo. This is a set that is estimated to have close to 100 different designs.

Many sets, like the aforementioned Monster Tatoo, or the 1962 Topps Superman set, were reprinted, at least in part, under a different name years later, and that can give beginning collectors a less expensive way to get their foot in the door. However, the pre-1970 market for temporary tattoos can be extremely volatile. An unopened piece of gum from the 1967 Topps Comic Book Tatoo set, featuring Superman and others, might go for upwards of two hundred dollars. Even generic temporary tattoos from before 1970 can easily command ten or fifteen bucks, or more.

Prices become more stable when looking at sets produced in the 1970s, but they can still be a bit unpredictable, depending on the property. In 1988 Pee Wee's Playhouse Fun Pak was overproduced, and unopened packs can be found for under ten dollars almost 35 years later. Most of the trading card inserts produced since 1990 can be found for under five bucks (sometimes way under) each, so that would probably be the best place for a beginner to start.

TALKING TRASH

MEET JOE SIMKO, A MAN WHO PRODUCES TONS OF GARBAGE

If there was a Mount Rushmore of Garbage Pail Kids artists, Joe Simko would probably be on it. Early in his career, Joe Simko worked as a storyboard artist for television commercials and was freelancing on the side designing show posters and album art for local punk rock bands. Now he lives in New York City and is currently a base card artist for the Garbage Pail Kids and Wacky Packages card sets. He works on almost all the licensing projects connected with the Garbage Pail Kids including the R.L. Stine GPK books, Garbage Pail Kids: Mad Mike Fury Load stop-motion film, and the Garbage Pail Kids Monopoly game. Joe has been one of the designers behind the scenes of GPK for more than a decade now.

Non-Sport Update: What was your first involvement with Garbage Pail Kids sketch cards?

Joe Simko: The first batch of sketch cards I worked on was for the Garbage Pail Kids Flashback series in 2009. Ira Friedman and the art director at the time, Jeff Zapata, brought me in. I had done my first couple base cards for that set, and Jeff asked if I could do some sketch cards for the set as well. Sketch cards were still early to GPK at that time. Only the base card artists worked on them. Those first sketch cards I did were truly “sketchy.” Scribbly, blue ballpoint pen works. Fairly messy from anything I’ve done since. I haven’t done sketch card work for quite a while now. All my time is filled up with base card work.

NSU: I heard you were part of a Garbage Pail Kids documentary. What was your role?

JS: Yes, the Garbage Pail Kids documentary, called 30 Years of Garbage, was a true test of fortitude. Jeff Zapata and I co-directed the doc. [It was] produced by us and June Gonzales. The three of us are very happy with the results. We were able to interview the original artists and creators involved with making Garbage Pail Kids and help give a good history on the birth of GPK and trading cards in general. It’s available for streaming on Amazon and iTunes among other places.

NSU: Can you tell us about Garbage Pail Krashers?

JS: The GPKrashers is a card series I created that was released by Topps, featuring classic GPK characters in their own custom designed crazed-out vehicles. They are also a series of toys available at Walmart. I'm lucky to be able to provide input for the licensed partners, all helmed by Ira Friedman, the current Topps VP of Global Licensing.

NSU: We read in 2016 you had created 200 new GPK characters since working with Topps. Do you have a current count?

JS: I have now painted almost 1,000 official GPK artworks just for Topps.

NSU: Recently you drew cards for 2021 Topps Transcendent WWE. How did that come about?

JS: The WWE x GPK cards I worked on would probably be considered more as 1 of 1 original paintings as opposed to sketch cards. They are 5"x7" acrylic paintings with airbrushed backgrounds. The project was given to me and fellow GPK artist Brent Engstrom from the art director at the time, Jessica Kanzer. We had lots of fun doing those. I hadn't watched WWE wrestling since the late '90s, but started watching it again for references on all the new superstars.

NSU: Do you have a dream property, or favorite "universe" you wish to illustrate cards for?

JS: So far I think I've been lucky enough to illustrate GPKs for some of my favorite shows, films and bands. I did a 20-card set based on Stranger Things called Stranger Kids. That was a super fun set to work on.

NSU: Are you a full-time artist?

JS: I do work as a full-time artist, and I'd even say I work overtime all the time. Pretty much all of my time is filled up working on GPK and Wacky Packages for Topps. Painting is my job, but I'd say it is a hobby, too. I would always be painting, drawing or sketching no matter what.

NSU: Are there any upcoming projects you're allowed to share with us?

JS: I am currently working on a bunch of GPK licensed projects that will be coming out in the fall of 2022. I wish I could reveal something, but unfortunately everything has to be kept secret until the official announcements from the partners can be made. I can say the GPK animated series is still in the works for HBOMAX, and a slew of other really cool things that are not the normal licensed product. Just wait and see.

NSU: How can people contact you or follow you?

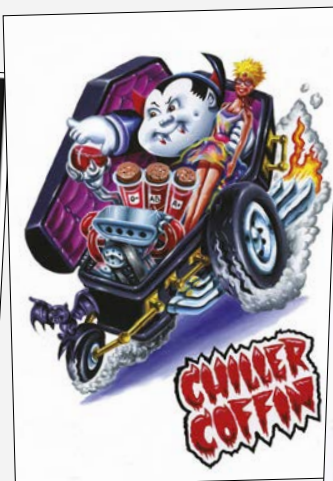

JS: People can follow me through any of my social pages.

NSU: Thanks again for your insider insight. We look forward to your new GPK licensed products, and celebrate as you close in on your 1000th official Topps Garbage Pail Kids piece of art. That's an incredible accomplishment. NSU

ALONG CAME A SPIDER-VERSE

NOW, UPPER DECK BECOMES WEB-MASTER OF THE VERSE

BY DON NORTON

Since Stan Lee and Steve Ditko created Spider-Man in 1962, the world has watched Peter Parker grow from a nerdy teen into one of Marvel's most beloved heroes, appearing in live action and animated television shows and even a Broadway musical. Furthermore, he has been the subject of nine feature films. The most recent, Spider-Man: No Way Home, premiered last December and was a smash hit.

This spring, Upper Deck will unleash its latest addition to their Marvel trading card series, Spider-Man: Into the Spider-Verse, based on the 2018 film. Into the Spider-Verse differs from other Spider-Man films in that it is computer generated, not live action, and the main character is not Peter Parker, but a New York teen named Miles Morales (voiced by Shameik Moore).

While exploring an abandoned subway Miles discovers a hidden lab, and naturally, there is a radioactive spider in the lab which bites him, as radioactive spiders are wont to do. Miles learns the lab is owned by crime czar Kingpin, aided by Green Goblin and Prowler. Spider-Man comes to Miles' rescue, but in the melee, Spider-Man and Green Goblin are killed. Miles tries to master his new skills with the help of a Peter Parker from another dimension.

Despite its rather contrived plot, Into the Spider-Verse was well received by critics and audiences alike. Some well known names appeared as voice actors, including Chris Pine (Spider-Man), Nicholas Cage (alternate Peter Parker), Zoe Kravitz (Mary Jane Watson), Kathryn Hahn (Dr. Liv Octavius), and Liev Schrieber (Kingpin).

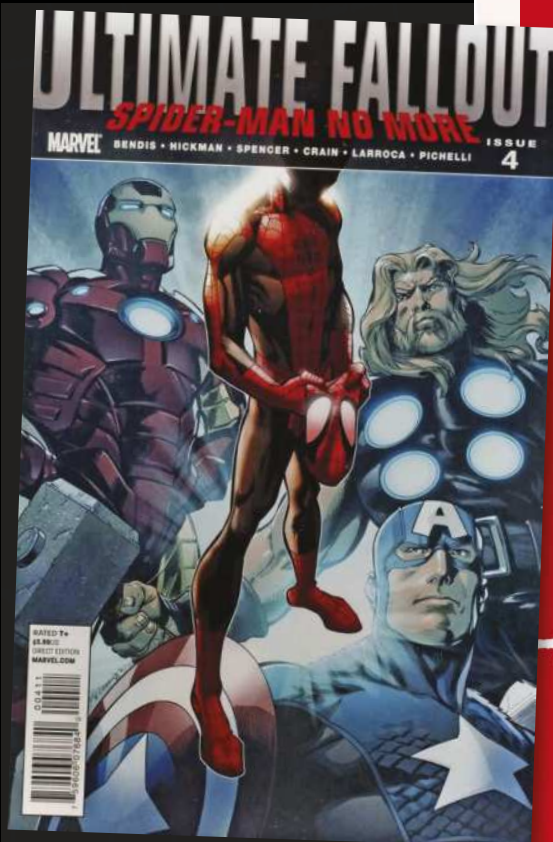

WHO IS MILES MORALES?

Readers who don't follow the comics may not be aware that the character Miles Morales has been around the Spider-Verse for a while. His first appearance was in Ultimate Fallout Comics #4 (August 2011). Since then he has been the lead character or appeared in several comic titles in his distinctive black Spider-Man costume.

Miles has an African-American father and Puerto Rican mother, making him the first non-white Spider-Man. He lives in Brooklyn and was 13 when he made his first appearance. Miles, voiced by different actors, has been featured in several animated television series, including Ultimate Spider-Man, and Marvel Super Hero Adventures.

In the world of video gaming, Miles' version of the web slinger often appears as a playable character or alternate costume. He got his first dedicated game in the 2020 PlayStation game, Spider-Man: Miles Morales.

AMAZING BASE AND CHASE

Upper Deck's March release of Into the Spider-Verse has elements that will appeal to young and old card collectors. Each of the 15 packs per box will contain seven cards, with at least five base cards and one parallel per pack. The base set will consist of 90-cards, which will cover the storyline of the film.

Found in a number of versions, Parallel cards will be inserted into every pack and will be a big part of this set. Most common will be the Red Parallels. The Spider P.I. Parallels will have a grayscale retro black and white noir look. Spectral Spider Parallels, numbered to 25, will have a unique UV Web design. Rarest will be the Canvas Parallels, seeded only two per case.

Upper Deck always provides a number of cool chase cards, and plenty will be found in this set. Look for 10 Everything's Relative stickers and 20 Amazing Stickers, in Hobby boxes only at 1:3 packs. It's Proprietary cards take a look at the tech and gadgets used throughout the film, such as Miles' web-shooter or Scorpion's stinger. Colorful My Story Rainbow Foilboard cards will be found four per box. Look for 30 Dimensions Collide Lenticular cards (1:15), also available as Color Collide Parallels. These use a unique animation style which depicts characters "glitching out" in action images.

WEBLOAD OF SPIDEY HITS

Collectors will be scrambling for In the Vault manufactured Patch cards. Variations include Mask cards (some of the different masks worn throughout the film), Character cards (12 various characters from the film), and 12 Letterman cards that will spell out the word "Spider-Verse." Look for ultra-rare Ultimate Gold Patch cards with gold trim, numbered to 10, found only one per case. One of one Printing Plates will be randomly inserted, as well.

Original art Sketch cards will be found two per case, featuring many of Upper Deck's talented pool of artists.

Lastly, several of the talented actors providing voices for this film will be signing for Spider-Man: Into the Spider-Verse. Single and numbered Dual and Triple Autographs will be found with odds to be determined. Confirmed signers include Shameik

Moore (Spider-Man), Kathryn Hahn (Doc Ock), Kimiko Glenn (Peni Parker), Marvin Jones III (Tombstone), and Brian Tyree Henry (Jefferson Davis), among others.

Thanks to the latest movie, the webhead is hot right now, and fans will have to use all their Spidey-senses to complete this set. They have already sold out pre-release through some outlets. These should be out now, or very soon. NSU

MORE SPIDER-VERSE ON THE WAY

Into the Spider-Verse was a box-office and critical success, so more of Miles Morales as Spider-Man was guaranteed. The first sequel, Spider-Man: Across the Spider-Verse (Part One), was originally slated for a Spring 2022 release but this has now been moved back to October, 2022. Miles' journey will be so epic that Spider-Man: Across the Spider-Verse (Part Two) is also in production and will premiere in 2023. In both films Miles will travel to alternate realities and feature characters such as Spider-Man 2099 (Oscar Isaac) and Spider-Woman (Issa Rae). At any rate, the Spider-Verse promises to be an exciting adventure for Spider-fans.

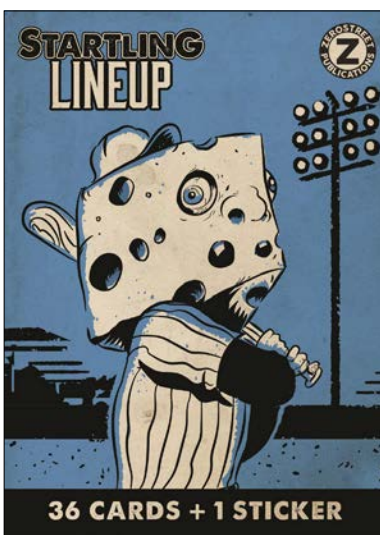

STARTLING LINEUP

Robert Jimenez of ZeroStreet has announced their next set of trading cards, Startling Lineup. Known for his dynamic and unique art style, Robert has produced a variety of trading cards through his studio and has contributed chase card images to a number of outside projects. Startling Lineup, a 36-card set, may be his strangest yet, featuring 24 bizarre baseball player parodies, along with 10 MVP (Most Vile Products) cards and a wrapper card with checklist. Included in each assemblage are two different unfolded wax wrappers printed by SideKick. The set is written and illustrated by Robert with some writing assists by his brother Del and Paul Harris, who also named the collection!

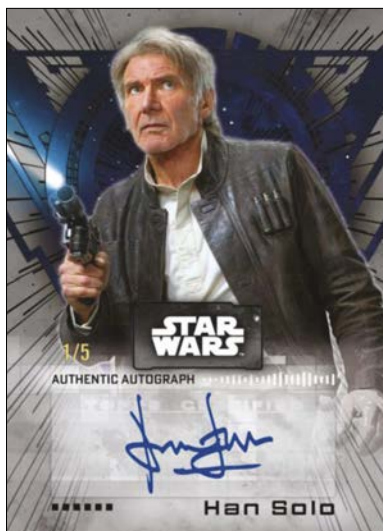

Characters are inspired by ball player names and include the likes of Pete Froze, Gnarly Fingers, Veggie Jackson, Styer Young, Tom Beaver, and more. Other cards have wacky names such as Half-Bat Boy and Expired Umpire. The Most Vile Product cards are parodies tied to ball players, foods found at ballparks, or eaten while watching a game! Some card examples include Strawberry Shortstop Doll, Charleston Chaw, Pop Jocks, Mrs. Left Field Cookies, and Bunts Ketchup.

The product was launched via Kickstarter, a popular source for new cards produced by publishers of all sizes. Rewards will be plentiful and include some of Robert's original art from the series, as well as his previous Fearsome Weirdos and original sketch cards. The set also includes a small group of artists creating just a handful of sketch cards each. Artists include Darrin Pepe, Chris Meeks, Daniel Horne, Kimber Grobman, and Jason Crosby. Fans familiar with the artwork of Robert Jimenez will be in for a real treat with this decidedly different card collection. Whether you are a fan of baseball or parody, this card set will cover all the bases. Startling Lineup is scheduled to ship later in March.

2022 STAR WARS SIGNATURE SERIES

Why not start the year off right with a new Star Wars set from Topps? Fresh off the sale of Topps to Fanatics, the tradition of exciting, eclectic Star Wars sets from Topps continues. On sale now, the 2022 Star Wars Signature Series is the perfect way to pick up some premium cards as well as a plethora of signatures. Following in the tradition of the 2021 card set of the same name, the set consists of all autographs. This is a reprieve for collectors who open pack after pack to get past the base cards in search of the autograph cards. There is only one card per pack, one pack per box, and 20 boxes per case. Each 2022 Star Wars Signature Series box contains one slabbed autograph card from over 100 unique signatures. The fresh, new design for 2022 offers a brand new, exciting Quad Autograph card. The new Quad Autograph cards, along with Red variants, will be numbered One of One. Where else can fans have the opportunity to collect four signatures all on one card? Parallels come in five levels: Blue/50, Green/25, Orange/10, Black/5, and Red 1/1. Some of the signatures include Adam Driver as Kylo Ren, Domhnall Gleeson as General Hux, Andy Serkis as Supreme Leader Snoke, Ewan McGregor as Obi-Wan Kenobi, Harrison Ford as Han Solo, Hayden Christensen as Anakin Skywalker, and many more. For those looking to fill some holes in their Star Wars autograph collection, or thinking of adding autograph hunting to their hobby, this set is a definite.

Following the success of their 2017 Elementals, Perna Studios looks to return with Elementals 2 as part of their 10-year anniversary. These painted cards represent reimagined images of various Elementals as portrayed by some amazing artists. Each of the characters exhibit the powers of Earth, Air, Water, or Fire, or are made of any of those specific elements. This card collection will detail many of the features that made the first set so popular—plus a few new facets.

One distinguishing feature of this new product is the chase cards will exhibit a pearly finish instead of the previous spot finish used on the first series. In all, the base will consist of 20 cards and will have a 10th anniversary header card inserted into each complete set. The list of artists will be expanded in comparison to the first series. There will also be a variety of promo cards and chase cards ranging from pearl finish to metal chase. While still in the planning stage, Perna Studios hopes to have metal sketch cards, as well. For fans of Perna's previous work, or for those who just enjoy fantasy artwork, this set is a winner. Affordable and easily collectible, Elementals 2 is perfect for both the new collector and seasoned cardboard enthusiast. Release date for the cards will be late May to early June. NSU

WHAT'S LISTED

Products listed in the Price Guide typically:

- Are produced by licensed manufacturers
- Are widely available
- Have market activity on single items

HOW IT'S LISTED

The sort order of the checklists are somewhat unique. All sets are listed 1) alphabetically then 2) chronologically. However, some exceptions have been made to further accommodate the reader. For instance, when it comes to recurring series, television seasons or film franchises and their sequels, all checklists will be grouped together in the same block. For example, if a reader was looking for sets devoted to James Bond or Harry Potter, they would find all sets devoted to these franchises in the same block. They would be listed chronologically while still adhering to the alphabetization of the entire section.

WHAT THE COLUMNS MEAN

The LO and HI columns reflect current retail selling ranges. The HI column on the right generally represents the full retail selling price. The LO column on the left generally represents the lowest price one would expect to find with extensive shopping.

MULTIPLIERS

Parallel sets and lightly traded insert sets are listed with multipliers to provide values of unlisted cards. Multiplier ranges (i.e. 20X to 40X) apply only to the HI column. Example: If base card A lists for 20 to 50 cents, and the multiplier is "20X to 40X," then the parallel version of card A or the insert card in question is valued at $10 to $20.

PRICING PREMIUMS

Some cards can trade at premium price levels compared to values listed in this issue. Those include but are not limited to: cards that became hot since this issue went to press, fan favorites (such as Harrison Ford) who may be in high demand, and memorabilia cards with unusually dramatic swatches, props, or patches.

STATED ODDS AND PRINT RUNS

Odds of pulling inserts are listed as a ratio (1:12 = 1 in 12 packs). If the odds vary by pack type, they are listed separately. Stated odds are provided by the manufacturer based on the entire print run and should not be viewed as a guarantee by neither Beckett Media nor the manufacturer.

GRADING

All cards in the price guide are based on NrMint to Mint condition. Damaged cards are generally sold for 25 to 75 percent of Mint value.

CURRENCY

This price guide is intended to reflect the entire North American market. While not all of the cards are produced in the United States, they will reflect the market value in U.S. dollars.

ONLY A REFERENCE

The data and pricing information contained within this publication is intended for reference only and is not to be used as an endorsement of any specific product(s) or as a recommendation to buy or sell any product(s). Beckett's goal is to provide the most accurate and verifiable information in the industry. However, Beckett cannot guarantee the accuracy of all data published. Typographical errors occasionally occur and unverifiable information may reach print from time to time. Buyers and sellers of non-sports collectibles should be aware of this and handle their personal transactions at their own risk. If you discover an error, misprint, or have any suggestions for Non-Sport Update, please notify us via email at nonsports@beckett.com

UPDATES

With the coming of a new year, non-sport cards have maintained their sales power. Top products so far this year include 2022 CZX Crisis on Infinite Earths. Being Cryptozoic's first release in quite some time and having a loaded autograph checklist, it's easy to see why collectors are picking this one up.

We expanded our autograph hot list to a Top 10 this time. First time signers like Natalie Portman, Rosario Dawson and Tom Welling have been highly sought after while regular mainstays such as Tobey Maguire, Hailee Steinfeld and Emilia Clarke have reiterated why they are true hot commodities in this industry.

No card is hotter right now than Precious Metal Gems. Whether it's in non-sport or sports cards, the PMGs have everyone in a frenzy and are commanding high prices, some as high as six figures! We have devoted our entire Key Sales list to them. Goldin Auctions set a non-sport record with the sale of the 2013 Fleer Retro Marvel Metal Precious Metal Gems Blue/50 #5 Spider-Man BGS 9 MT. It sold for $132K!
